EDITORIAL

Two years have already passed since the last edition of Opti-Rep. Subsequently, we have been working very hard collecting new information to make Opti-Rep the optical industry's "MUST HAVE" tool for all sales departments and their representatives.

The need to have an updated list of all Canadian optical retailers is obvious. But this tool offers much more then just a compilation of lists!

We are proud of this brand new layout with so much more information then our previous editions. As proposed in the past, we have included the industry's international optical events as well as the entire Canadian list of optical retailers filtered by province and by city.

One of the big additions this year is the compilation of new detailed statistical facts on the Candadian optical retail market. The second important innovation is the classification by store type and by store category, of each and every optical Optical retailstore.
This information will simplify the work of sales departments and representatives in determining the needs of their potential clients by being able to profile them in advance.

We worked and still work rigorously to continuously update our database and provide the sales teams with the most accurate information. With close to 5,200 stores in the country, the challenge is huge!

For those who have purchased this year's edition again, we thank you and hope this new layout will help you out even more!

As for those who are putting their hands on the Opti-Rep for the first time, have fun discovering this tool specifically designed for you.

We hope the Opti-Rep becomes your best road companion!

GLOSSARY AND LEGEND

OPTICAL STORE TYPES

To distinguish the nature of each retail store listed in our guide, we have filtered all the optical retail businesses by type. Types are as follows:

- Independent retailer: Business that is privately owned usually thought of as a single-store operation. Considered to be independent are stores with less than 3 locations. Independent retailers represent the majority of the Canadian optical retail industry.

- Chain store: One of a group of businesses that is under the same name, ownership, central management and carries essentially the same merchandise. These types of stores usually have standardized business methods and practices; many are under a form of franchising. Considered to be chains are stores with 3 or more locations.

- Department store: Large retail establishment with an extensive assortment of various goods, organized into separate departments. All departments are housed under the same roof. The optical sections are run seperately from the core management.

OPTICAL STORE CATEGORIES

We have further filtered all the optical retail businesses by their primary profession or activity. Each optical business can have one ore more category. Categories are as follows:

- Opticians: Business managed by opticians who primarily offer optical services. An optician (O.O.D.) is a technician. In a retail environment, they are specially trained to interpret prescriptions, fit, and dispense eyeglasses, as well as contact lenses. They provide a multitude of eyecare services. Opticians are not medically trained, rather they are technically trained.

- Optometrists: Business managed and operated by optometrists. Primarily offers optometry services. An optometrist is a Doctor of Optometry (O.D.) and is a health care professional who is licensed to provide primary services such as eye examinations and eyecare prescriptions.

- Ophthalmologists: Business managed and operated by ophthalmologists. Primarily offers medical services. An ophthalmologist is a Doctor of Medicine (M.D.), that is specialized in eye and vision care. Ophthalmologists are trained to provide the full spectrum of eyecare, from prescribing glasses and contact lenses to complex and delicate eye surgery. They may also be involved in research.

- Sunglasses only: Business that may not be managed by eyecare professionals. These businesses specialize in non-prescription sunglasses.

- Boutique: Business that owns, carries and sells the brand name associated with its retail name.
